DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-26 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

3. Claims 1, 5-8, 12, and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Zou, 6,160,796.

As to claims 1, 5-8, 12, and 16, Zou discloses a method of notifying clients of a specific change in a system comprising a client requesting notification of the specific change in the system, detecting the specific change in the system, and notifying the client requesting notification that the specific change in the system occurred, maintaining a list of requests for notification, the client terminating the request for notification, and removing a request corresponding to the client from the list of requests for notification, the specific change in the system is connection of a device, the specific change in the system is disconnection of a device (note abstract, Figure 14, column 2, lines 2-44, column 3, lines 9-51, column 12, lines 1-18, column 13, lines 32-44, column 16, lines 22-46, column 24, lines 15-47, column 25, lines 11-45, wherein the fact that the callback information, which is generated from a comparison of the old GUID list with the new GUID list after a bus reset due to a connection or disconnection, includes new and removed devices reads on notifying the client of a specific change – if the change is the connection of a device, then the callback information would include the newly added device and if the change is the disconnection of a device, then the callback information would include the newly removed device).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 2-4, 9-11, 13-15, and 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zou, 6,160,796 in view of Stutz et al., 5,485,617 (hereinafter Stutz).

As to claims 2-4, 9-11, 13-15, and 17-20, Zou discloses the processor receiving a callback routine from the client when the client requests notification and the processor notifies the client by executing the callback routines (note abstract, Figure 14, column 2, lines 2-44, column 3, lines 9-51, column 12, lines 1-18, column 13, lines 32-44, column 16, lines 22-46, column 24, lines 15-47, column 25, lines 11-45), but fails to disclose maintaining a list of requests for notification, the client terminating a request for notification, or removing a request corresponding to the client from the list of requests for notification.

Stutz discloses maintaining a list of requests for notification, the client terminating a request for notification, and removing a request corresponding to the client from the list of requests for notification (note abstract, Figures 7 and 10, column 15, line 33 – column 16, line 57, and column 18, line 53 – column 19, line 5).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to maintain a list of requests for notification, terminate a request for notification, and removing a request corresponding to the client from the list of requests for notification in the system of Zou, as Stutz teaches, so as to allow for dynamic notification of clients as needed.

6. Claims 21 and 24-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zou, 6,160,796.

As to claims 21 and 24-26, the claimed elements have already been discussed with respect to claims 1, 5-8, 12, and 16 above, with the exception of detecting a specific change in a USB system and finding and deactivating a driver corresponding to a connected and disconnected, respectively, device.

Examiner takes Official Notice that USB is well known in the art of serial peripheral bus systems.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to employ a USB in the system of Seymour so as to be compatible with the most recent technological advancement in serial buses and so as to take advantage of the many benefits provided by USB, including high speed, low cost and hot-pluggability.

7. Claims 22 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zou, 6,160,796 in view of Falkenburg et al., 6,311,242 (hereinafter Falkenburg).

As to claims 22 and 23, Zou fails to disclose finding and deactivating a driver corresponding to a connected and disconnected, respectively, device.

Falkenburg discloses finding and deactivating a driver corresponding to a connected and disconnected, respectively, device (note column 8, line 19 - column 9, line 30).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to find and deactivate a driver corresponding to a connected and disconnected, respectively, device in the system of Zou, as Falkenburg teaches, so as to automatically allow for communication with a newly added device and free up resources for use without having to reboot the system, as Falkenburg teaches in column 8, line 19 – column 9, line 30, thereby minimizing the involvement of the user in configuring the system to recognize the newly added or removed device.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments filed 11/25/02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive for the following reason:

If USB is well known in the art, a reference should be supplied.

Art Unit: 2181

As Applicant has not seasonably traversed, (i.e., in the next response following the action in which Official Notice was taken) the taking of Official Notice with respect to USB being well known in the art, Applicant's right to challenge the Official Notice is waived. Note: in this case, the first action in which Official Notice was taken was submitted on 10/2/01, and no challenge was made in response.

9. Applicant's arguments with respect to the remaining claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to Applicant's disclosure, as the art discloses notification of changes in systems.

In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
